MACHEN'S SENTENCE OUT TONIGHT AT MIDNIGHT

One Of The Ringleaders In Postoffice Graft
Cases Will Be Free Shortly.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., March 6.—Augustus W. Machen, one of the ringleaders in the post office graft cases whose trials established a record for hard-fought criminal cases in which the Federal government has been interested, is about to become a free man again. Machen was sentenced to serve two terms of two years each in the West Virginia penitentiary at Moundsville. His good behavior has had the effect of reducing the time to three years and at midnight tonight his sentence expires. He is expected to join his family in this city tomorrow morning.
The officials at the Moundsville prison say Machen has proved himself to be the most capable prisoner who has ever been incarcerated there. His work has had the effect of placing the prison on a business basis equal to that of any establishment—prison or otherwise in the country. So important were the reforms instituted at his suggestion and so valuable were the changes made, that the committee of the State legislature wanted to compliment him in their report of an investigation made of the prison, but he objected to receiving the compliment.
Machen's work in prison has been of such an important character and his conduct so exemplary that he has been granted many extra privileges during his confinement. He has never spent a night in a cell, it is said, having been given quarters in a large room on the lower floor of the prison. His work required his presence in the main office of the prison at all hours, it having been nothing unusual for him to start on his work as early as 5 o'clock and to remain on until midnight. During such time as the prison work did not require his attention he has been studying French and German and is said to have become proficient in both languages. He was not required to wear the stripes of a convict, and persons having business with the prison transacted with him without having the slightest idea from his appearance that they were dealing with other than a paid officer of the institution.
Machen is said to be the picture of health, his condition being much better than it was when he entered the prison. His hair is a shade whiter than when he was committed, but is in splendid physical condition. During the three years that he has been deprived of his liberty he has not seen a member of his family, but a photograph of all of them has formed part of a glass paper weight on his desk. It was his wish that members of his family should not see him in prison, and his wish was respected.

BUT COLD COMFORT FOR THE MANAGERS

Appeal to Negro Delegates to Vote
for Fairbanks or La Follette
Is Encouraging.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 6.—A little comfort is afforded the committee of Wisconsin politicians who are hosting Senator La Follette for president, by the appeal sent out yesterday from Washington, in which the "colored campaign vigilance committee" calls upon the black vote of all the southern states, to rally to the support of the presidential aspirations of Senator Foraker of Ohio. The call names Fairbanks or La Follette as alternatives to be supported in the event of the impracticability of the nomination of Senator Foraker. In view of the fact that Foraker has been down and out ever since the Ohio court knocked his contest into a cocked hat, La Follette has an even chance with Fairbanks to get the support of the colored vote of the south. However, this circumstance is not one of particular importance for the Wisconsin candidate, for Taft delegates have already been elected in most of the southern states in which conventions have been held. The reason why the "colored vigilance committee" is opposed to Taft is alleged to be his participation and approval of the president's action in kicking three companies of colored troops out of the regular army after the "shooting up" of Brownsville, Texas.

BASKETBALL TEAM MUCH SURPRISED

Were Badly Beaten by the Beloit College Team Here Last Evening.

Partly on account of a reversal of form on the part of the local team and partly because the visitors were too fast and too rough for them, the Beloit College basketball team defeated the Y. M. C. It was expected that the game would be a close one as both teams had come out about the same in their games with the Rockford team, but the Beloit players ran all over the local team. Two Important Turf Classics to Be Decided in March.

BOTH ARE WORTH $10,000.

Chapultepec May Capture Big Events. Son of Gerolstein Has Shown Stake Caliber in His Recent Races—Uncle Looks Formidable.

Interest is beginning to develop in the two southern Derby to be run at New Orleans during the month of March, and the three-year-olds likely to start are already being sorted out by classes. The top notch colts eligible to the two events—that is, horses capable of coping with some of the best of the New York tracks can produce—Uncle Mellick, Lawrence P. Daley and Chapultepec. But of this quartet only Chapultepec is reasonably certain to start. Sam Hildreth has Uncle and Mellick on the Pacific coast, and it is not impossible that he will bring them on. Both events are of a guaranteed value of $10,000 and are therefore prizes well worth going after, and if Hildreth thinks he can win either or both with his crack pair of three-year-olds it is practically certain he will make a try. He has already won two of the Crescent City Derbys, one with Wital, when she ran around in water to her knees, and the other with Guiding Star two years ago.

Frank Cook declared recently that he would not send any of his colts down for the race. Good judges who saw Lawrence P. Daley run in New York last summer are expecting him to develop into a three-year-old of the highest class. His trainer, Bill Phillips, declares that aside from Colin he is confident none of the three-year-olds can cope with the namesake of the Missouri politician. But Cook says he has a couple of others that he thinks will be as good as Daley, if not better. These are Whitaker, named after the inspector of police in St. Louis, and the other a big Ben Strone colt named Captain Tills, after the president of the fair grounds in St. Louis. Both were sleek last year.

If Hildreth doesn't send his pair, it is hard to see where serious competition is to be found for Burlew & O'Neill's colt, Chapultepec, a son of Gerolstein—Graciously, and incidentally it is an odd story as to how Chapultepec happens to be still the property of Burlew & O'Neill. Burlew is a noted developer of yearlings, and it is a regular story every fall or early spring to hear of Burlew selling a young horse at some tremendous price. Last spring was no exception, and when one day he worked Chapultepec in remarkable time there were bidders galore. Matt Byrnes, netting for "Diamond Jim" Brady, offered $25,000, and Burlew refused the offer. Later he was offered $20,000 for the colt, and again Sam Hildreth tried to buy a half interest for $10,000. Burlew refused all offers, much to every one's surprise.

After all, though, it was for the best, as far as Burlew and his little partner were concerned, for the horse has already won close to $20,000 and is now as sound as a new dollar and looks a twenty pound better horse than he was around New York.

Burlew is unique in that, while he is not ordinarily a heavy betting himself, neither has he heavy betting connections. He said he passed that up long ago because it was not profitable and heavy play on his horses so attracted public attention that when they ran poorly it brought him a lot of unjust criticism.

Harvard to Revive Cricket. Efforts are being made at Harvard to revive interest in cricket. A petition has been granted by the athletic committee which asked for the laying out of a cricket crease in the stadium. As the stadium is now used for lacrosse and track teams, their consent will have to be obtained. If the lacrosse team and athletes consent the crease will be laid out as soon as the snow leaves the ground next spring.

Another Indian Wrestler Discovered. B. R. Jones, manager for Fred Beal, the wrestler, has a protégé in Greyfeather, a half breed Indian, whom he is willing to back for a match with Demotral, Westergarde or Carl Pons. He will wager that the Denver lad will not show a white feather.

Direct Hal, 2:04 1/4. In the three times he has been sold Direct Hal, 2:04 1/4, has brought in the aggregate $51,000.

KING QUITS HOME FOR $21,000,000

LEOPOLD ALLOWS BELGIUM TO PAY CONGO DEBT.

RYAN COMPANIES SAFE

Monarch, in Abandoning Crown Domain, So Fixes It That American Concessions Are Respected.

Brussels, Mar. 6.—The text of the new Congo annexation treaty was submitted to parliament Thursday by Premier Schollaert and, on his motion, was sent to committee without debate.

According to the terms of the new treaty, King Leopold agrees to abandon the crown domain and the crown foundation to Belgium, Belgium, on its part, shall not only assume all the Congo obligations, amounting to $21,000,000, but undertake also to impose the king's part in the Congo revenues during his lifetime. Belgium is specifically required to respect the concessions granted to two American companies in 1904, in which Thomas P. Ryan is interested.

Deputy "Reserves Comment." M. Vandervelde, the socialist deputy and leader of those who oppose the treaty of annexation, Friday reserved comment on the new proposals, preferring to study the text of the document before giving his opinion in detail.

He regarded the king's abandonment of the crown domain, however, as a great victory, but was disposed to oppose flatly recognition of the rights of the concessionary companies. He expressed doubt also as to whether parliamentary control was made sufficiently clear and feared that the charges upon Belgium and Congo revenues might prove a fresh obstacle to annexation.

In spite of the criticism of the opposition, the prevailing impression in parliamentary circles regarding the king's concessions assure the ratification of the treaty. The king's friends naturally regard the treaty as it now stands as exceedingly magnanimous. Baron Deschamps, the minister of state, said Friday: "The king presents to the nation as a gift a colony 23 times as big as Belgium, which he created and organized. Of the crown domain, which is larger than France and of extraordinary richness, he retains nothing."

Given Properties in France. "Besides, he gives to the nation beautiful properties in the north of France which he purchased with the revenues from the crown domain, only holding for himself the usufruct during his lifetime. More important still, he grants to the Belgian parliament both the administrative and budgetary control of the colony, which should satisfy the foreign critics. In return, he simply exacts an obligation that Belgium complete the works undertaken by him in this country and a sum of money necessary to carry out his philanthropic and scientific projects in the Congo independent state." Should parliament now refuse to ratify the treaty it is believed here that King Leopold, in order of escape foreign intervention, would offer the Congo to France.

No Hope for Entombed Miners. Birmingham, Ala., Mar. 6.—Repeated efforts of rescue parties provided with oxygen apparatus to reach the entombed miners, now believed to number 21, at Halstead colliery, have failed. The fire in the mine is raging and there is no hope now that a rescue can be effected.

THE "NEWMAN BROTHERS" PIANOS EMBODIES SEVERAL NEW AND SPECIAL FEATURES IN PIANO BUILDING.

J. W. Waterbury, the world renowned long endurance pianist, writes as follows: Columbus, Ohio, October 28th, 1907.

My Dear Sir:

I expect to play against time in your city Friday and Saturday, November 1st and 2nd, and shall make an effort to break the world's record of twenty-five hours and forty-five minutes' continuous playing.

In my numerous professional tours in the United States I had occasion to make use of all of the most reputed makers, and on my approaching tour I have decided to use the "Newman Brothers" instrument in preference to all others with which I am acquainted, and I sincerely trust that you can arrange to place one of these pianos in the "Edison" No. 34 Public Square, for this occasion.

Awaiting the favor of an early reply, I beg to remain, Sincerely yours, J. M. WATERBURY, World's Champion Long Endurance Pianist.

Hamilton, Ohio, November 6th, 1907.

My Esteemed Sir: I take pleasure in sending you this unsolicited testimonial in recognition of the superior merits of the "Newman Brothers" Piano used by me last Friday and Saturday when I succeeded in breaking the world's record of continuous piano playing.

Previous record—Twenty-five hours and forty-five minutes. Present record—Twenty-six hours and ten minutes.

Permit me to express to you by admiration for the excellent piano which made it possible for me to do this.

Its splendid tone, endless resources, and pliant, sympathetic touch have so endeared it to you my admiration for the excellent reflection that if the record made in your city is to be increased the work must be done on a "Newman Brothers" piano, and I take pleasure in saying that the noble character of this instrument enabled me to break the world's record and render my work more acceptably than with any other piano with which I have had experience, and the name "Newman" will ever remain with me a dear and pleasant memory.

Wishing you all the success that your splendid piano should bring to you, I am, Yours very truly, J. M. WATERBURY, Champion Long Endurance Pianist.

In opening up my piano parlors at room 4, Carpenter Block, I have instituted a sale of these famous Newman Bros. Pianos at the following prices:

"BRYAN DAY" IN HIS HOME STATE

NEBRASKA PLEDGES PRESIDENTIAL ALLEGIANCE TO HIM.

DEMOCRATS IN SESSION

All Sorts of Warm Greetings Thrown at Man Whom Party Leaders Term the "Ideal American."

Omaha, Neb., Mar. 5.—Friday was "Bryan Day" in Omaha. For that matter it was "Bryan Day" throughout Nebraska.

With the Democratic state convention as a nucleus, party leaders from every county and practically every primary district in the commonwealth pledged allegiance to the presidential aspirations of Mr. Bryan and to consider means for furthering his interests before the Democratic national convention at Denver next July. Enthusiasm was prevalent throughout Thursday. It broke loose early in the afternoon session of the convention and gradually gathering volume broke out in tumultuous vociferations when at the beginning of the evening session the platform committee presented a resolution.

Every Man for Bryan.

The resolution: "The Democratic party of Nebraska again declares confidence in, and admiration for William Jennings Bryan. In him we behold the ideal American citizen—the ideal

William Jennings Bryan.

Democrat. We rejoice that the principles which he has so ably advocated have been gladly received and as now generally accepted by the American people.

Resolved, That the delegates by this convention chosen, be and are hereby instructed to vote as a unit for the nomination of Mr. Bryan for the presidency.

Brief as this official indorsement of Mr. Bryan's candidacy, it met in full the approval of the delegates. The ironclad instructions were given the 16 men to represent the state at Denver.

Platform Bryan's Work.

The platform was largely Mr. Bryan's own work. That it reflected the leader's views as to what should form the issues upon which the party should go before the country next summer, was not denied.

Mr. Bryan, however, said that the declarations of the platform were necessarily incomplete; that some subjects which undoubtedly will be included in the national platform, were omitted, while others were treated in the Nebraska document in a purposely brief manner so as to allow amplification at Denver. The platform advanced little that was new. The Fowler and Aldrich currency bills were condemned.

RECEIVER FOR EASTERN ROAD.

President B. F. Bush Takes Charge of the Western Maryland.

Baltimore, Md., Mar. 6.—B. F. Bush was appointed late Thursday receiver for the Western Maryland railroad. Mr. Bush is president of the road.

After the close of court, and with the utmost secrecy, a bill was filed in the United States circuit court by the Bowling Green Trust company of New York asking the appointment of receivers for the road.

The application for a receiver for the Western Maryland railroad followed a meeting of the board of directors, at which a communication from President B. F. Bush was read reciting the financial needs of the company, indicating that it will be unable to meet loans due in April.

Agent Beaten and Robbed.

Glen Carbon, Ill., Mar. 6.—William A. Miner, station agent for the Clover Leaf railroad here, was found Thursday lying senseless on the floor of the station. He had been knocked senseless and robbed of $65. He was revived and is in a serious condition.

Bar Hanging in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Mar. 6.—The senate Thursday concurred in the house bill for the execution of all death sentences at the penitentiary in this city by electricity, thus abolishing hanging in the state.

Straining.

It is the everlasting strain to make both ends meet that carries most of us to an early grave.

WOOL MARKET DOES NOT SHOW ANY GAIN

A feature of the wool market this week is the demand for medium and low wools and the considerable transfers of one-quarter blood and three-eighths in ewes and territory. Of one-quarter blood fleeces alone estimates are for about 500,000 lbs., changing hands. Some dealers report more interest in clothing territory wool of fine and fine medium grades. They find more disposition to consider large fleeces. In every instance where sales are reported, prices are low, with a few exceptions where choice wool is traded in. In the negotiations on large fleeces in progress, bids are also very low, so low, in fact, that they are not given serious consideration by sellers, though instances are related where the buyer was surprised to have his bid accepted.

Michigan and Wisconsin Fleeces. Most interest has been in the trades in quarter blood. Michigan has certainly sold at 25c and sales at 25c are said to have been negotiated. Sales of Wisconsin wool are in the same range. Michigan three-eighths has changed hands at around 20c and Wisconsin at 28 to 29c. No business in fine is reported.

At Philadelphia

At Philadelphia there has been more inquiry and more sales where the sellers were willing to meet the ideas of the buyers who represented both local and New England mills. The call has covered a wide range, from low 1/4 to 1/2 and 1/2. The range of prices varies according to grade and condition of wool. Coarse common and hard unwashed fleeces, 25c; bright 1/4 blood unwashed fleeces, 25 to 26c; 3/4 blood unwashed fleeces, 25 to 26c; 1/2 blood unwashed fleeces, 25 to 26c; fine unwashed fleeces (this grade is very scarce), according to character and condition, 27 to 30c, while some choice lots are held above. Actual sales were made at prices quoted.

These are the conditions of the wool market at the eastern centers.

TRIBUTE PAID TO PROCTOR

SENATE HONORS DEAD VERMONT MEMBER.

Body Is Laid to Rest in Home Town, Which Suspends Business in Sympathy.

Washington, Mar. 6.—A marked tribute of respect was accorded the memory of the late Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont by the United States senate Thursday.

Republicans and Democrats attended the brief session in such number as is seldom seen except on unusual occasions. All stood reverently as the chaplain, Dr. Edward Everett Hale, delivered the prayer, which contained an appropriate reference to the life and work of Senator Proctor.

The reading of the journal was only begun when Senator Dillingham of Vermont arose and, asking that it be dispensed with, referred in tones that indicated deep emotion to the great bereavement that had come upon the senate, the state of Vermont and the country by the passing of a man who for so many years had been in the public eye. "It is with profound sorrow," said Mr. Dillingham, "that I announce to the senate the death of the Hon. Redfield Proctor. He died at his apartment last evening. It was known that the nature of his illness was serious, but his condition was not considered critical until Tuesday, and therefore the announcement of his death came to all of us with a shock, as well as with a sense of grief. At some future time and on an occasion presented for that purpose I hope to join with other friends of Senator Proctor in this body in tendering to his memory that tribute of affection of confidence and of esteem which I know we all feel, and I speak of personal knowledge of what I conceive to be a remarkable life filled with great results."

Proctor, Vt., Mar. 6.—The funeral of the late Senator Redfield Proctor was held in the Proctor Union church here Friday, immediately after the arrival of the two special trains that brought the funeral party from Washington.

The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. H. H. Seaver of Rutland, an intimate personal friend of the senator. The burial was in the Proctor mausoleum, which was erected by the senator a few years ago. In honor of Senator Proctor's memory flags were set at half-staff throughout the village, Friday all work in the various branches of the Vermont Marble company, in which Senator Proctor was interested, was suspended.

GET TUBULAR NO. 6

It is the Most Expedient Size for Most Dairy-men—Does Big Work, Yet Easily Turned by Hand.

The Tubular No. 6 is the only easy hand separator that will separate 700 pounds of milk per hour. Its perfect construction, light weight suspended bowl on ball bearings and the absence of all contrivances and contraptions inside the bowl are the reasons why.

Reasons Why.

Why is the No. 6 Tubular the standard size—why not buy a smaller Tubular?

For the same reason that you buy Johnny's overcoat large enough to take care of his growth another year and for the same reason that you hitch up the huge, strapping Clydesdale to the big farm wagon when you haul a load of wheat to town instead of hitching the pony to a road cart and making fifty trips of it.

A No. 6 Tubular hand separator will separate the milk from ten average cows in less than fifteen minutes. And how about the calves? Won't it be better for them to have the skimmed milk before it gets cold, before it loses its natural animal heat? Don't you think it's dollars to you to consider the calves?

What are you going to do when you get more cows? You'll get them all right; now don't say you won't for you will. The Tubular separator will show you that there is more money in cows than you have ever dreamed, and you will be going out into the highways for more of them just as the other Tubular users are doing and will continue to do. Don't you see that you will be wise to buy a separator a little larger than you absolutely must have to get along with your present herd?

This little section is written in your interest, and is worth remembering when you buy a cream separator. Buy a No. 6 Tubular in the first place and be safe.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

HELD AT SHOPIERE

On Tuesday and Wednesday of the Present Week—Interesting Talks Given.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of the present week a Farmers' Institute was held at Shopiere which was enjoyed by the residents of the entire immediate neighborhood. The address of welcome was made by W. H.
Howard of La Prairie who in a very general way laid the institute workers and farmers of the county a cordial welcome. He was responded to by S.
S. Jones of Clinton who said that they were glad to be with the people of Shopiere and vicinity and hoped great good would come to all from the teachings of the institute.

The Farmers' Institute opened at 10:30 Tuesday morning with all the speakers present, including Mr. N. B.
Rauler who sent his paper, "Gottfried Kaps in the Winter," which was read by one of the audience. In this paper he emphasized one point above
the others, that to have the laying strain of whatever breed you prefer, and then feed a balance ration for eggs as you would cows for milk. Have good, warm, clean, properly ventilated, well lighted houses and with plenty of exercise and good water, with a food ration as nearly as possible like that of the summer months, there should not be any trouble of anyone having eggs in the winter.

Shopiere, by Mr. W. A. McKerrrow, the address dwelt chiefly on the good points of a good store, and after a good deal of discussion it appeared that the most profitable advice for this state and climate was the Dawson of one breed or other in preference to the long wool breeds.
He advised frequent change of pasture for the eradication of the stomach parasite from the herd.

Tuesday Afternoon.
After enjoying a good farmers' dinner prepared by the ladies in the Congregational chapel, we returned to the hall and saw an unusual sight for Shopiere—farmers' teams lined both sides of the street, showing an interest in the afternoon session. The musical part of the program was very ably rendered by Mr. Henry Kollig and Miss Florence Parker of La Pra-rie, with piano and and violin duet.

First address by S. S. Jones of Clinton on "Good Roads." He spoke chiefly on the need of first beginning right in the making of a perfect and permanent road, the first essential being proper drainage, a good foundation, systematically laid, followed up with proper care. Instead of "what he called the repair road system" he built good permanent highways.

W. O. Hotchkiss was the next speaker. He said in order to have good roads we must have culverts and bridges. He had samples of reinforced cement slabs which he claimed if properly made and laid, and used for highway culverts would last a hundred years.

Following this talk came W. A.
McKerrrow on "Hygiene Tuberculosis."
He emphasized the fact that for the protection of our herds from this plague one of the best methods would be not for us to wait for the state to make a law enforcing the farmer to use the tuberculin test on all our cattle,
but to get the proper materials now offered by the experiment station to farmers (at cost) consisting of self-regulating thermometer, hypodermic
syringe, and needles with tuberculin,
for only $5.00, and test your herds yourself, which you can do if you are careful and follow directions given on application from the state office. Do this or employ some reliable veterinary to do it and know the condition of your herd and thereby eradicate the danger of feeding to family and yourself the germs which are contained in infected milk, which are liable to break out and afflict your children with that dread disease, consumption or tuberculosis.

In Mr. Adolph's address he advised the King system of ventilation
in barns. He brought out our attention to the fact that our stables, dairy and food inspectors carried with him a sample of milk taken from a farmer's milk. He dwelt largely on the carelessness of the farmer
in allowing their cows to become so filthy from lack of bedding to lie down on, and improper ventilation and sanitation. He advised as necessary the whitewashing of our barns and plenty of sunlight.

Tuesday Evening.
About two hundred enjoyed an address by our county highway commissioner, H. A. Skavlem, on "Good Roads." He gave in the plan he had formulated for an aggressive work
during the coming year, for the betterment of our county roads. He did not believe in spending money to get thousands of dollars of money to begin with, but with united and faithful support by the farmers and business men and by strict adherence to duty by the road commissioner in charge, we can have good roads at a much less cost per mile in most localties than has been spent on some of these high priced patterns that have been held up to the people as models.

After Mr. Skavlem's address a fine literary and musical program was rendered. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Tuttle and Miss Lathers of Turtles, and the Misses Fonda and Earl of Shopiere, also Mr. Alfred Schweidman of La Prairie. Instrumental music by Miss Florence Cox of Beloit. The literary part of the program was ably filled by Miss Decker of Janesville, Mrs. Komar of Turtles, Miss Roberts, and Mr. Case of Shopiere. Encores were called for and responded to by all.

Wednesday Morning.
Mr. Scott of Stanley, Wis., gave a very interesting address on "Soils."
Illustrating the effect of the air and water on the rocky formation of soils, showing that if a farmer would have his land in the best condition for seed or plants he must make the particles of soil as fine as possible, for the finer the soil the greater capacity
it has for retaining moisture.

Then Mr. Herbert of Sparta gave an address on poultry and his methods of raising and caring for fowl so as to derive the greatest profits therefrom.

He showed by illustration his broader which is not patented but is so simple that any farmer can construct one. Although simple, it was considered by those present to be equal, and in many respects better than the patented one.

Mr. Scott then addressed us on the dairy cow. He had pictures of the world's champions for butter and cheese, and that Wisconsin stood second to none in the annual production of dairy cows and dairy butter, and seeing that the farmer of Wisconsin was so naturally fitted for carrying on of the dairy industry, the duty of the dairy farmer, if he would be successful in that line, must most assuredly seize and use the best methods obtainable for reaching the highest results.
Firstly he must select a sire for his herd from one of the three best dairy breeds and then in the carrying on of his business test and cull out all unprofitable ones until his herd reaches its highest point of proficiency. This will take time and care on the part of the farmer, but in the end he will reap the profits. For why should he feed cows that at the end of the year are in debt to us for their care and feed?

"The musical program for this session
was ably rendered by Miss Mabel Bostwick.

Wednesday Afternoon.
Mr. Horbert gave a talk on the ideal kitchen fruit garden. He would suggest that it consist of about one-fourth of an acre, ten rods long by four rods wide, and that first on one side he would plant four rows of strawberries, varieties to consist of both early and late so as to have fruit until raspberries commence to ripen. He suggested that a main plant enough of these fruits—strawberries, blackberries, and raspberries—
to have a continuous supply of fruit all through the season. His advice in regard to care for raspberry vines in the winter time was taken up with lively interest, several claiming they had hardly vines that were brought from Rock county nurseries that did not need winter protection and had born great crops for many years in succession without any covering whatever and when a well known lady testified to picking a fourteen-quart pailful of fruit without moving out of her tracks, Mr. Scott declared we need no more discussion on strawberries.

"Market Gardening" was then taken up by Mr. E. L. Benedict of Clinton.
His main point was that a man who did not like to work hard with his hands or who did not have a love for pottery work would never make a successful market gardener. To be successful he must not only be careful and get good seed but must also study needs of his available markets
and above all he must be energetic, industrious, and not easily discouraged.

"Farmers Organized or Otherwise" was Mr. A. C. Powers' paper. He claimed that although the farmer fed and clothed the nation, although he raised the grains and produce that made millions of corporations to exist, although he was the source of all prosperity in the country, he was the slave to the very things over which he should be king, because he for the product of his labor received the smallest return in the handling and marketing of the same. His plea was for farmers to organize—protect your own interests by organization. In setting your prices for the fruits of your labor.

The closing address was given by L. E. Scott of Stanley on "Silos and Silage." He claimed that well cured silage was the best and cheapest rough feed for the dairy cow, and that all prominent and successful dairymen of the state were using silage for dairy cows. He would not advocate any one kind of silo, but said there were several good kinds.
He mentioned the Guller and the concrete as among the best if put up by men that understood their business.
In answer to a question as to whether silage injured milk by tainting it he said he would feed Jordan or any other milk dealer and prove that although sour or moldy silage would injure milk, good silage kept in right kind of silo, fed under right conditions, would not injure cows or milk and that the highest priced milk shipped to Chicago was from silage fed cows.

Miss Mabel Bostwick and Mr. J. P.
Newman furnished the entertainment during this session. The L. A. S. of the Congregational church furnished meals for the visitors. After the closing address a photograph of those present was taken in front of the hall and will be published later.

WILL GROW BEETS

IN KENOSHA CO., TOO

Rock County Sugar Company Invades
The Lake Shore Country For Crops.

There will be a lot of sugar beets
raised in Kenosha County, this year.
The Rock County Sugar company, having had crops raised last and previous years, and being very successful, have already contracted for 1,500 acres, to be raised in Kenosha County, among its several farmers, for their factory, for 1908,
and many more will avail themselves
of the opportunity before seedling time, it having been demonstrated that Kenosha County soil, climate, and the intelligence of its farmers, have produced the best turnage and percentage of sugar per ton, of any county in the state, and without a doubt, the coming crop will be a success and return growers from $80.00 to $125.00
per acre for their trouble.

A crop that can be grown without cost to the grower, until after the crop is produced; then only at small cost for seed, if the grower does his own labor. The Company will furnish hand labor on same at the rate of $21.00 per acre and board their own help, to be paid for after the crop is raised, a proposition that surely no land owner ought to reject.

A really market at a stated price the safest of all crops, unaffected as other crops, by drought, excessive rains or frosts, a sure money maker for every farmer and land owner, no cash outlay necessary to start.

WISCONSIN HAS FINE

HOPES FOR PENNANT

Must Defeat Minnesota At Basket Ball
To Clinch Western Championship.

Madison, Wis., March 6.—If Minnesota defeats Wisconsin at basketball
in the game at Minneapolis Saturday night, the University of Chicago five will have a lead pipe cinch on the western intercollegiate championship.
The badgers started with a rush this season, defeating every team on the schedule, including Illinois, Chicago and Minnesota, and gained a long lead in the percentage column. The Chicago lost only one game, that with Wisconsin, and a few days ago evened
the score by whipping the badgers in Chicago. Now Wisconsin goes up against Minnesota with a team which Coach Angell says is the poorest that has represented Wisconsin this season, because Lindeman and other valuable players have been lost, and the chances are nearly even that the gophers will be able to repay Wisconsin for the early season game and at the same time practically win the championship for Chicago.

HUMAN RACE AFFLICTED WITH QUEER DISEASE

Cooper Says Internal Parasites Cause Much Suffering Everywhere.

The following remarkable statement was recently made by L. T. Cooper. It concerns the preparation which has been so widely discussed throughout the country during the past year, and has sold in such enormous quantities in leading cities:

"It is now a well-known fact that wherever I have introduced my New Discovery medicine, hundreds of people have brought internal parasites, or tapeworms, to me. In many cases these people did not know the nature of the parasite, and were consequently extremely nervous until I explained the matter to them. In some cases so many have had this experience that the public generally became alarmed. I take this opportunity of explaining what these creatures are, and what I have learned about them in the past. Tapeworms are much more common than would be supposed. I venture to say that ten per cent. of all chronic stomach trouble, or what is known as a 'rundown' condition, is caused by them. An individual may suffer for years with one of these great parasites and not be aware of it.

"Contrary to general belief, the appetite is not greatly increased—it only becomes irregular. There is a general feeling of faintness, however, and a numbing sensation in the pit of the stomach.

"People afflicted with one of these parasites are nervous and depressed. Their chief sensation is one of languor, and they tire very easily. Lack of energy and ambition affect the body, and the mind becomes dull and sluggish. The memory becomes not so good, and the eyesight is generally poorer.

"The New Discovery, in freeing stomach and bowels of all impurities, seems to be fatal to these great worms, and almost immediately expels them from the system. I wish to assure anyone who has the experience just related with my preparation, that there is no cause for alarm in the matter, and that it will as a rule mean a speedy restoration to good health."

The Cooper medicines are a boon to stomach sufferers. We sell them.—E. B. Holmstedt.

THE MYSTERY

CHAPTER XI.

DURING the next few days the crew discussed our destination. Discipline, while maintained strictly, was not conventional. During the dog watches often every man aboard would be below, for at that period Captain Solover loved to take the wheel in person, a thick cigar between his lips, the dingy checked shirt wide open to expose his hairy chest to the breeze. In the twilight of the forenoon we had some great son lawyer's talks—I say "we," though I took little part in them. Generally I lay across my bunk smoking my pipe while Handy Solomon held forth, his speech punctuated by early speculations from the nigger, with hesitating deep sea wisdom from the hairy Thrackles or with voluminous bursts of fractured English from Perdosa. Pulz had nothing to offer, but watched from his pale green eyes. The light shifted and wavered from one to the other as the ship swayed; garments swung; the empty berths yawned cavernous. I could imagine the forenoon filled with the desperate men who had beaten off the Oyann. The story is told that they had "except the gambler's decks with her own rapid flow turned in."

No one knew where we were going nor why. The doctor puzzled them and the quantity of his belongings.

"It ain't pearls," said Handy Solomon. "You can kiss the book on that, for we ain't a diver among us. It ain't Chinks, for we are cruising up-and-down. Likely it's trade-trade down in the islands."

We were all below. The captain himself had the wheel. Discipline, while strict, was not conventional. "Contraband," muttered the Mexican, "for dat he goev us double pay." "We don't get her for nothing," agreed Thrackles. "Double pay means get your head broke."

"No trade," said the nigger gloomily.

They turned to him with one accord. "Why not?" demanded Pulz, breaking his silence.

"No trade," repeated the nigger. "Ain't you got a reason, doctor?" asked Handy Solomon.

"No trade," insisted the nigger.

An uneasy silence fell. I could not but observe that the others held the nigger's statements in a respect not due them as mere opinions. Subsequently I understood a little more of the reputation he possessed. He was believed to see things hidden, as their phrase went.

Nobody said anything for some time. Nobody stirred except that Handy Solomon, his steel claw removed from its socket, whittled and tested, served and turned, trying to fix the hook so that, in accordance with the advice of Percy Darrow, it would turn either way.

"What is it, then, doctor?" he asked softly at last.

"Gold," said the nigger shortly.

"Gold—treasure?"

"That's what I said at first!" cried Handy Solomon triumphantly. It was extraordinary, the unquestioning and entire faith with which they accepted as gospel fact the negro's dictum.

There followed much talk of the nature of this treasure, whether it was to be sought or conveyed, bought, stolen or ransomed in fair fight. No further soothing could they elicit from the nigger. They followed their own ideas, which led them nowhere. Some one lit the forenoon lamp. They settled themselves. Pulz read aloud.

This was the programme every day during the dog watch. Sometimes the watch on deck was absent, leaving only Handy Solomon, the nigger and Pulz, but the order of the day was not on that account varied. They talked, they lit the lamp, they read. Always the talk was of the treasure.

As to the reading, it was of the sort usual to seamen, cowboys, lumbermen and miners. Thrackles had a number of volumes of very cheap love stories. Pulz had brought some extraordinary garish detective stories. The others contributed sensational literature with paper covers adorned lithographically. By the usual incongruity a fragment of "The Marble Faun" was included in the collection. The nigger had his copy of "Dante on Alchemy." I haven't the slightest idea where he could have got it.

While Pulz read, Handy Solomon worked on the alteration of his claw. He could never get it to hold, and I remember as an undertone to Pulz's reading the rumble of strange, exasperated onths. Whatever the evening's lecture, it always ended with the book on alchemy. These men had no perspective by which to judge such things. They accepted its speculations and theories at their face value. Extremely laughable were the discussions that followed. I often wished the shade of old Duval could be permitted to see these, his last disciples, spelling out dimly his teachings, mispronouncing his grave utterances, but believing utterly.

Dr. Schermmerhorn appeared on deck seldom. When he did, often his fingers held a pen which he had forgotten to lay aside. I laughed him preoccupied by some calculation of his own, but the forenoon, more picturesquely, saw him as guarding constantly the heavy casket he had himself carried aboard. He breathed the air, walked briskly, turned with the German military precision at the end of his score of strides and re-entered his cabin at the lapse of the half hour. After he had gone, remained Percy Darrow leaning idly against the taffrail, his graceful figure swaying with the ship's motion, smoking always the corn husk Mexican cigarettes which he rolled with one hand. He seemed from that farthest point aft to hold in review the appliances, the fabric, the actions, yes, even the very thoughts, of the entire ship. From then he seemed that on which he should comment or with which he should play, always with a sardonic, half serious, quite wearied and indifferent manner. His inner knowledge, viewed by the light of this manner or mannerism, was sometimes uncanny, though perhaps the sources of his information were commonplace enough after all. Certainly he always viewed with amusement his victim's wonder.

Thus one evening at the close of our day watch on deck he approached Handy Solomon. It was at the end of ten days, on no one of which the seaman failed to tinker away at his steel claw. Darrow balanced in front of him with a thin smile.

"Too bad it doesn't work, my amiable pirate," said he. "It would be so handy for fighting—see here," he suddenly continued, pulling some object from his pocket. "Here's a pipe; present to me, I don't smoke 'em. Twist her halfway, like that, she comes out. Twist her halfway, like this, she goes in. That's your principle. Give her back to me when you get through."

He thrust the briar pipe into the man's hand and turned away without waiting for a reply. The seaman looked after him in open amazement. That evening he worked on the socket of the steel hook, and in two days he had the job finished. Then he returned the pipe to Darrow with some growing of thanks.

"That's all right," said the young man, smiling at him. "Now, what are you going to fight?"

CHAPTER XII.

CAPTAIN SOLOVER received as his due the most absolute and implicit obedience imaginable. When he condescended to give an order in his own person, the men furiously jumped to execute it. The matter had evidently been thrashed out long ago. They did not love him, not they, but they feared him with a mighty fear and did not hesitate to say so vividly and often when in the privacy of the forenoon. The prevailing spirit was that of the wild beast cowed but snarling still. Pulz and Thrackles in especial had a great deal to say of what they were or were not going to do, but I noticed that their resolution always began to run out of them when their first foot was set to the companion ladder.

One day we were loading along, everything drawing well and everybody but the doctor on deck to enjoy his pleasure. Below me on the deck Captain Solover roamed here and there, as was his custom, his eye cocked out like a housewife's for disorder. He found it, again in the evidence of expectation, and as Perdosa happened to be handiest fell on the unfortunate Mexican.

Perdosa protested that he had nothing to do with it, but Captain Solover, enraged as always when his precious deck was soiled, would not listen. Finally the Mexican growled sulky and turned away as though refusing to hear more. The captain thereupon felled him to the deck and began brutally to kick him in the face and head.

Perdosa writhed and begged, but without avail. The other members of the crew gathered near. After a moment they began to murmur. Finally Thrackles ventured most respectfully to intervene.

"You'll kill him, sir," he interposed. "He's had enough."

"Had enough, has he?" screamed the captain. "Well, you take what's left."

He marked Thrackles over the eye. There was a breathless pause, and then Thrackles, Pulz, the nigger and Perdosa attacked at once.

They caught the master unawares and bore him to the deck. I dropped at once to the railings and commenced my descent. Before I had reached the deck, however, Solover was afoot again, the four hanging to him like dogs. In a moment more he had shaken them off, and before I could intervene he had seized a belaying pin in either hand and was hazing them up and down the deck.

"Mutiny, would you?" he shrieked. "You poor swabs! Forget who was your captain, did ye? Well, it's Captain Ezra Solover, and you can lay to that! It would need about eight fathoms of stuff like you to tie me down." He chased them forward, and he chased them aft, and every time the pins fell blood followed. Finally they dived like rabbits into the forenoon hatch. Captain Solover leaned down after them.

"Now tie yourselves up," he advised, "and then come on deck and clean up after yourselves!" He turned to me.

"Mr. Eagen, turn out the crew to clean decks."

I descended to the forenoon, followed immediately by Handy Solomon. The latter had taken no part in the affair. We found the men in horrible shape, what with the bruises and cuts, and bleeding freely.

"Now, you're a nice looking Sunday school," observed Handy Solomon, saying them sardonically. "Tackle Old Scrubs, will you? Well, some needs a bale of cotton to fall on 'em afore they learn anything. Enjoyed your little diversions, mist? And what do you expect to gain? I ask you that now. You poor little infant! Ain't you never felled him afore? Don't remember a little brigantine, name of the Petrel? My eye, but you are a pack of fools!"

To this he received no reply. The men sullenly assisted each other. Then they went immediately on deck and to work.

After this taste of his quality Captain Solover enjoyed a quiet ship. We made good time, but for a long while nothing happened. Finally the monotony was broken by an incident.

One evening before the night winds I sat in the shadow of the extra cory glinted any sign. The companion was open. In a moment some door below was opened also, and a scrap of conversation came up to us very clearly.

"You had dem finished?" the doctor's voice inquired. "So, that 'as well." Papers rustled for a few moments. "And the result—ah—exactly—it 'as that exactly. Percy, mein son, that mads the experiment exact. We had the process!"

"I don't see, sir, quite," replied the voice of Percy Darrow, with a thrice of excitement. "I can follow the logic of the experiment, of course; so can I follow the logic of a trip to the moon. But when you come to apply it how do you get your re-agent? There's no known method!"

"Dr. Schermmerhorn broke in: 'Ach, it 'as that I had perfected. Pardon me, my boy; it 'as the first I had worked from you apart. It 'as for a surprise. I had made in small quantities the missing ingredient. It will form a perfect interruption to the current. Now we go!"

"Do you mean to say," almost shouted Darrow, "that you have succeeded in freeing it in the metal?"

"Yes," replied the doctor simply. "I could hear a chair overturned."

"Why, with that you can!"

"I can do everything," broke in the doctor. "The possibilities are enormous."

"And you can really produce it in quantity?"

"I think so. It 'as for us to discover."

A pause ensued.

"Why?" came the voice of Percy Darrow, awestricken. "With fifty centrifigrams only you could transmute any substance—why, you could make anything you pleased almost! You could make enough diamonds to fill that chest! It is the philosopher's stone!"

"Diamonds—yes—it is possible," interrupted the doctor impulsively. "It was worth while. But you should see the real importance!"

WAS OF THE EARTH, EARTHY.

Little Baby Vincent Not Pleased with Implied Compliment.

There is an eternal masculine as there is an eternal feminine, and in the young masculine animal of the human race the idea that it is not content with his dignity and strength of character to be considered too good develops early. This was shown the other day by a very little man named Vincent, who is so small that his knowledge of the use of words is as yet very rudimentary. The little girl, who is older, had returned from Sunday school, and grandmamma had asked her, on general principles, what the lesson was about.

"Oh, about angels," replied the little girl indefinitely, and then, seeing a possible application, she turned to the baby, adding, "And you are a little angel, aren't you, Vincent?"

Baby might have been expected to be pleased at this compliment, affectionately given, but not at all. He screwed up his small face, threw all the force of his small mind into the putting together of the proper words, and burst out:

"No—I bad boy."

A Subject at Hand.

If Columbia founds a chair in humanity for the prevention of cruelty to animals, it should give early attention to the way freshmen are treated.

INDICT EX-BANKER; GONE

WILLIAM ADLER, NEW ORLEANS, ACCUSED IN BILL.

Former Head of Institution Departs on Ship, Which Is Wrecked—Wanted Badly.

New Orleans, Mar. 6.—William Adler, formerly president of the State National bank of New Orleans, was indicted by the United States grand jury Thursday, charged with misapplying national bank funds and with other illegal transactions.

There were 74 counts in the indictment.

Charges that dealings about which they should have been informed, were concealed from the board of directors and that false entries and misapplication and abstraction of funds occurred reaching between $200,000 and $300,000 were made against Adler in the indictment.

Two months ago Adler landed the steamer Alps with groceries from the wholesale firm of A. Adler & Co., of which he was the head, and sailed from New Orleans. He has not been here since.

The steamer was wrecked off the coast of Spanish Honduras after which Adler and his son made their way to British Honduras, and later into other parts of Central America.

Soon after Adler disappeared, the Adler grocery firm went into the hands of receivers upon the application of New York creditors, and the New Orleans clearing house made an investigation of the condition of the State National bank.

This investigation was followed by the decision of the bank's stockholders to liquidate the institution and liquidation is now in process.

The Lure of the City.

City life is like an intoxicant. Once one becomes familiar with the teeming life, the endless variety, the free play of brain and thought, to go back to the stillness of a rural community is like the sudden return to water as a drink after a generous enjoyment of alcohol.
